

TIMBER LAND

We love these simple, well-made kitchen accessories by environmentally conscious British design studio Tanti, which manufactures its products using sustainable English woods such as oak, cherrywood and ash. As well as championing green technologies and using materials with a low carbon impact, the brand donates five per cent of its total profits to rainforest charity Cool Earth. The charred-oak fruit bowl (£110) and salad servers (£46 including holder), both pictured, are complemented by an ash wood chopping board, which doubles as a serving platter, and a matching salt-and-pepper set (tantidesign.co.uk).
